Judith Coplon,
Red Friend Face
Jury Indictments

NEW YORK, March 7—(UP)—Federal attorneys called for grand jury indictments today against Judith Coplon, 27-year-old justice department employee, and Valentine Gubitchev, 32, the Russian engineer arrested with her on charges of stealing government secrets.

Raymond P. Wheatley, special assistant to the attorney general, was scheduled to present the government's case to the grand jury today. He had been expected to call Miss Coplon and Gubitchev as witnesses, but at the grand jury assembled for the session there were indications that the pair may not appear at all.

The girl, an attractive graduate of Barnard college who could still pass as a coed, may be released today, her attorney indicated, if her $20,000 bail can be raised.

But Gubitchev, an employee of the United Nations, still was being held in $100,000 bail and did not even have an attorney. The Russian government demanded his release on grounds of diplomatic immunity and held off providing him with legal counsel.

Miss Coplon, a Russian expert in the justice department's foreign agents registration section, was seized in company with Gubitchev Friday night on a Third Avenue bus after being trailed from Washington by FBI agents. In her handbag was found a package of "planted" documents relating to security which she allegedly intended to turn over to the Russians.

Justice department sources indicated that the girl has refused to talk about the charges against her or give any hint as to whether other government employees might be involved in a "spy ring."

Meanwhile, the FBI laboratory in Washington has been examining the documents found in Miss Coplon's possession. It is expected they will be returned to New York, however, for presentation to the grand jury as evidence.

Government attorneys expected the case against the two will be completed within a few days, permitting the grand jury to return indictments by the end of the week. Russian representatives reportedly saw Gubitchev Saturday night and assured him their government was doing everything in its power to obtain his release under diplomatic immunity.

However, the Russian has been suspended from his United Nations job as adviser on construction for the UN headquarters and UN legal authorities have insisted that, since Gubitchev was not on official duty at the time of his arrest, he does not have diplomatic immunity.

REPORT TROUBLE WITH NEW TAGS

COLUMBUS, March 7—(AP)—Handle those 1949 aluminum auto tags carefully, Ohio motorists were advised today by Frank M. Quinn, state registrar of motor vehicles.

Quinn conceded that the plates were not as sturdy as the 24-gauge steel ones used in the past.

Deputy registrars in Mansfield reported some motorists complained the wind had blown off their new tags; that some tags were torn as they were being bolted onto cars. Quinn said it was difficult to believe that wind blew off the tags. Nevertheless, he added, they demand much more care in handling than the old ones.

The Ohio penitentiary, which manufactures the tags, had to turn to aluminum because it could not obtain the 1400 tons of steel needed for the old type.

WILL BRING OLEO
BILL TO 2ND VOTE

Sen. Boyd Offers Motion To Take Another Ballot On
Bill In Senate

By H. H. DAUGHERTY
COLUMBUS, March 7—(AP)—First efforts to resurrect the oleomargarine bill will be made in the state senate tonight. It was defeated by one vote in the senate last week.

A motion to reconsider will be made by Sen. William M. Boyd (D-Cuyahoga). One of the bill's most ardent supporters, Boyd finally cast his vote against it when he realized defeat was certain. He wanted to qualify for making the reconsideration motion. Only a member who voted with the prevailing side is qualified to make such a motion.

The bill, which was initiated by petition of electors, would legalize the manufacture and sale of colored oleomargarine.

The bill had sufficient votes for passage, seventeen, but Miss Margaret Mahoney, the Democrat floor leader who was presiding, did not vote.

Actual Count 16-14
Her vote would have given the necessary 17. The actual vote was 16 for to 14 against.

Two members did not vote. Sen. George Davies (R-Fulton) was ill at home and Sen. David McK. Ferguson (R-Guernsey) left the chamber when the roll was called. Whether these two senators will be on hand for the Monday night session is not known.

On the surface it would appear that the proponents of the measure have sufficient votes (with Miss Mahoney's) to pass the bill on reconsideration. However, there has developed a possible hitch. Reliable reports say that Sen. Ralph A. Winter (R-Medina) who voted for the measure last week has declared his intention to vote against it if it is again brought to a vote. His vote would offset Miss Mahoney's and still leave the bill short one vote for passage.

Senator Davies, a Wauson banker in the midst of a strong rural election and most likely would oppose the measure. Senator Ferguson, a Cambridge oil and gas producer, likewise represents the rural counties of Morrow, Knox, Wayne, Holmes, Coshocton, Tuscarawas, Guernsey, Monroe and a part of Noble counties.

URGES DOCTORS
TO BECOME MORE
CANCER-CONSCIOUS

CINCINNATI, March 7—(AP)—The nation's general medical practitioners were urged today to become "cancer conscious."

Dr. Lowell S. Goin of Los Angeles, a top X-ray specialist, told the first scientific assembly of the American Academy of General Practice that "the best cancer detection center is in the doctor's office."

"The ideal of the general practitioner's office as the principal cancer detection center will be realized," he said, "when the physician has become cancer conscious; that is, when he regularly asks himself 'could this be cancer' and when, having suspected the disease, he takes a sample of tissue for study."

More than 2,000 general practitioners settled down to regular convention sessions today. The academy's board of directors and the General Assembly and congress of delegates met yesterday.

Dr. Goin, who is a past president of the California Medical Association and the American college of radiology, praised the general practitioners "because you are the first to see and treat the sick."

Dr. Francis C. Grant, professor of neurosurgery at the University of Pennsylvania, another speaker today, told the doctors the severing of certain nerves in the body holds the key to relief from pain particularly in cancer conditions.

Mac F. Cahal of Kansas City, executive secretary of the academy, yesterday pledged the group to solid support of the American Medical Association in its fight against the so-called "socialized medicine."

"American doctors are in the front line in a war of philosophies between socialism and individual freedom," he said.

Similar opposition to compulsory federal health insurance came from Dr. Rufus B. Robins of Camden, Ark., speaker of the academy's congress of delegates.

Salineville Pair,
Louisville Man,
Injured In Mishap

CANTON, March 7—A Salineville couple and a Louisville man are in Mercy hospital here today as a result of an auto-train crash at Fairhope.

The injured are Leonard Culp, 32, and his wife, Vera, 27, of Salineville, and Elmer L. Crowl, 44, of Louisville. The accident occurred at 7:38 p. m. Sunday when the Pennsylvania railroad, Manhattan limited crashed into two cars stalled on a crossing.

Culp suffered a fractured ankle and Mrs. Culp suffered abrasions on her knees. Crowl, the most seriously injured, suffered a fracture of one leg and possible fracture of the other. Mrs. Culp's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Goddard of R. D. 2, Salineville and the Culp's twin daughters, Vondra and Sandra, 7, who were in the Culp car, escaped injury.

Culp told Stark county deputies he had lost his way in searching for Route 30 and drove onto the crossing where his auto stalled. He said he halted Crowl who was passing, and asked to be pushed. Crowl complied and both autos were on the crossing when struck by the train, Culp said.

W. J. Macklin of Pittsburgh, engineer, said the train was traveling about 55 miles an hour at the time. He said he saw the two cars at the crossing, but thought they had stopped.

The Crowl car was described as a total wreck. The rear of the Culp auto was smashed.

Arriving a day ahead of time, Rear Admiral Ellis M. Zacharias is here for his talk at the Town Hall meeting at 8:15 to tonight in the Salem High school auditorium.

Zacharias, a navy veteran of 33 years' service, is the author of the book "Secret Misions." He arrived in Salem Sunday and spent today inspecting Salem industrial plants.

Credit Terms Loosen
On Automobiles Today

WASHINGTON, March 7—(AP)—You can go out and buy an automobile on 24 months' credit today. Refrigerators, radios and television sets also had their installment buying limits raised to nearly two years after the federal reserve board relaxed the controls a bit.

Previously you had to pay off credit in 12 to 18 months, under a 13 percent rate.

Down payments were also reduced by the board to 13 per cent (previously it was 20).

Credit, an exception, however. You still have to pay cash for one-third of the total price.

16 KILLED IN OHIO TRAFFIC
OVER WEEKEND

Accidents Bring Heavy
Fatalities; Three Die
Near Oak Harbor

By The Associated Press
Traffic accidents took 16 lives in Ohio over the weekend.

Three young persons were killed early Sunday when their car struck a concrete culvert seven miles west of Oak Harbor in Ottawa county. They were Beverly Smith, 19, and Virginia Hetrick, 19, of Oak Harbor, and Theodore Stetzel, 20, of Fremont.

Three others were injured seriously in the same accident. They were Carl Wolf, 19, of Fremont; Shirley Fought, 18, of Oak Harbor, and Kenneth Carnahan, 20, of Fremont. Wolf suffered cuts and leg injuries; Miss Fought, a fractured leg, and Garlon a broken leg.

Two men and a five-month-old baby were killed in an automobile accident ten miles east of Chardon Saturday. They were: Darwin Redmond, 25, of Meadville, Pa.; Emil Meier, Jr., 21, of Harrisville, Pa.; and Frederick A. Button, five months old son of Mrs. Laura Button of Windsor Mills, Ashabula county. A jeep driven by Mrs. Button collided with a car occupied by the Pennsylvania men.

Others Die
Other traffic fatalities included: Robert Q. Jones, 41, of Columbus, killed Sunday when a car in which he was riding sideswiped a utility pole at Creston near Wooster.

Louis B. Pappas, 65, of Columbus, fatally injured when struck by a car in Columbus Sunday.

Glenn L. Denton, 68, of Yellow Springs, died Sunday of injuries suffered Saturday night when hit by a car in Yellow Springs.

Mary Kathryn Billings, 15, of Anna, O., killed Sunday when a car in which she was riding struck a bridge abutment near Jackson Center in Shelby county.

Gerald Cunningham, 21, of Beaverton (near Dayton), killed when a car in which he was a passenger struck a tree.

Charles William Rupert, 38, of Springfield, injured fatally Sunday when car in which he was riding struck a bridge on Route 58 north of Urbana. He was en route home from a visit to Lima.

James F. Coffey, 47, of Columbus, injured fatally Saturday night when struck by an automobile in Columbus.

William Walley, 74, of Bainbridge, killed Saturday when a Baltimore and Ohio freight train hit his log truck at Washington Court House.

Roy Wyant, 25, of Mogadore near Akron killed Saturday when his car smashed into a utility pole.

Hiram Penrod, 74, of Piqua, killed Saturday night when his bicycle collided with a car near Piqua.

ALLIANCE COUNCIL TO MEET TONIGHT

ALLIANCE, March 7—(AP)—Disclosures last week that vice, gambling and bootlegging were allowed to flourish here will get consideration in city council meeting tonight.

Proceedings will be carried by radio station WPAH-FM.

Mayor Robert D. Althouse storm center in a blizzard of statements, accusations, newspaper accounts, and state liquor department shake-ups which followed disclosures of vice, said he accepted "my full responsibility" to carry out a clean-up program.

"I fought in the Battle of the Bulge," said the mayor, a former 28th infantry division private, "but it was never like this. The past week seemed five weeks long."

Three Truckers Fined
On Charges of Overload

Four drivers were arrested for traffic violations over the weekend, three of them for overloading their trucks, the state highway patrol said.

George R. Abraham, 33, of Youngstown, Cosmo D. Venanzo, 26, of Leetonia, Pa., and Glenn L. Hogue, 42, of Darlington, Pa., were each fined $25 and costs by Mayor K. T. Gormley of Columbus for overloads.

Theorize That New Move In Personnel
Anticipates Crisis

LONDON, March 7—(UP)—Premier Josef Stalin may have revamped the Soviet foreign office and strengthened the inner Kremlin Politburo in anticipation of a diplomatic showdown with the West this spring, informed Western diplomats said today.

The Soviet Union today faces the same kind of critical decisions the West made more than a year ago—the decision of adopting a softer policy or of pursuing the present policy to the bitter end, even though it might lead to war.

The Western powers made their decision after the unsuccessful Moscow conference early in 1947. Then they decided to abandon all hope of immediate four-power agreement on anything and to proceed in Western Europe without Russia.

This the West did. They moved without Russia toward economic recovery of Western Europe, toward Western European political unity and a separate Western German state.

The Atlantic pact, to be signed soon, will be the high point of that Western policy and plan. Western diplomats for months have been expecting that a showdown in East-West relations would coincide with completion of the Atlantic pact.

Former Secretary of State George Marshall, when he started conversations on the Atlantic pact in Paris last fall, recognized that the Russians would have to make a major decision once the pact was signed and military aid started to flow into Western Europe.

One Soviet choice was to admit the West really meant business in defending itself against further Communist encroachment and therefore to seek at least a truce in the cold war.

The other is to consider the West's policy a bluff and call it by trying to press Soviet aims further into the Western area. Such a choice admittedly could lead to war.

Western observers believed Stalin decided to juggle his high command as the hour of critical decision approached. But which way Russia will go is unknown and probably won't be for several weeks.

Other informed sources reported meanwhile that the foreign ministers of Britain, France and the United States will meet within a month to confer on the Soviet cabinet shakeup and plans for Western Germany.

The date and site of the Atlantic pact conference has not yet been set. British officials expect it to be late this month or early in April at Bermuda, Washington and Ottawa.

U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson, British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman already are preparing the agenda for a private big three meeting at the same time.

Agenda Listed
The agenda will include two major items:

1. A complete survey of the cold war and the west's relations with Russia. This will include an exchange of information and ideas on the Soviet position in replacing V. M. Molotov with Andrei Malenkov as Soviet foreign minister.

2. Western plans for Western Germany. This will include discussions for ironing out the snags in the dismantling of industrial plants, in the occupation statute, in the

No Celebrations For Turkeys

People who decide what labor unions should endorse in the line of legislative proposals can't have thought through very carefully the issue of the filibuster.

If they had thought it through, they'd come to a billion and be called out of town unexpectedly before putting unions on record against unlimited debate in the U. S. senate.

Labor unions have been, still are and probably will continue to be in minority status in the United States. Their leadership and membership will depend in the future, as they've depended in the past, on being protected as a minority in the body politic.

They will continue to depend, also, on exerting influence out of proportion to their strength at the polls. They are, in other words, not essentially different from southerners—another minority that needs protection and gets it by sticking together against the majority.

Apparently it hasn't occurred to opponents of filibustering that they may be filibusterers themselves some day. If it had, they'd realize that nothing would be sillier than a turkey celebrating Thanksgiving because that was the time when some turkey it didn't like was going to get its head chopped off.

Seeing Is Believing

A printers' strike which closed Buenos Aires newspapers has proved again that seeing is believing. Radio stations increased their news program in an effort to fill the gap, but this did not keep down a wild crop of rumors that sprang up immediately.

The government had closed the papers to conceal from the people what the constituent assembly was doing in rewriting the country's constitution. A general strike was about to be called. Milk supplies would be cut off. The price of gasoline was going to be doubled. These and similar stories swept the city. New rumors followed old, in spite of investigations and denials.

All this is not a new phenomenon. Almost everyone, it seems, seeks confirmation in the printed word of what is heard.

This is indicative, we should say, that the press has earned a firm reputation for general reliability that has not been threatened by newer, faster means of communication. This seems to be true even in Buenos Aires where, with a couple of notable and noble exceptions, the press has surrendered its independence to the dictator as a price for its existence.

The happenings in Argentina also emphasize a function of the press that is often overlooked—its importance in combating fear and confusion and panic in preserving a calm and orderly social existence.

It is naturally satisfying to the newspaper profession to be reassured by the above incidents of the need and importance of the press. But it is not a complacent satisfaction. Rather, it is one that quickens the sense of responsibility that must accompany importance.

Star Chamber Justice

A military commission in Germany arrested 20 members of an alleged spy ring. It announced that their trials would be secret, their names withheld, and their fate—which might be death—never disclosed. In other words, they might be convicted on any evidence or no evidence, and never heard of again. No, the military commission wasn't Russian. It was American.

Fortunately General Clay stepped in and changed the arrangements, which had been made without his knowledge. The trials will still be secret, but names and verdicts will be made known. In making these changes the general noted that unfriendly forces might seize upon such a trial policy for propaganda purposes.

That is debatable, since the forces most unfriendly to us do the same thing. But what about our friends' reaction to this example of "American justice"? What about the precedent it might have set? How are some of our representatives in Germany protecting "United States security"—The excuse given for the secrecy—by showing themselves to be so uncertain and frightened that they could even contemplate using such Bolshevik tactics? We fear that General Clay's prompt action cannot entirely erase the bad impression.

Guessing Game

If Russians are trying to guess what lies behind appointment of Louis Johnson to succeed James Forrestal as U. S. secretary of defense, they're as far up in the air as Americans trying to guess what lies behind appointment of Andrei Vishinsky to succeed Vyacheslav Molotov.

There is one difference. Americans have a rough idea what the Johnson-Forrestal switch means in their own government, but it's doubtful if any Russian below the Kremlin level has the faintest idea what's behind the Molotov-Vishinsky switch. Russians aren't encouraged to take part in the guessing game of high politics, even when their own affairs are involved.

It's doubtful that Molotov has been slapped down. It seems more likely that Vishinsky has been slapped up, to free Molotov for greater responsibilities. Perhaps as Josef Stalin's successor. A possibility in Russian politics that has been largely overlooked is that Stalin might not wait for death to settle the issue of his successor.

A more logical way to handle the problem would be for Stalin to bring about the fictional transfer of dictatorial power while he was still alive. Molotov, as the heir-apparent, might be placed in the premiership through Stalin's retirement into the status of a Russian elder statesman. But that is only one guess.

It's neither better nor worse than a dozen others, including the guess that the Soviet union may be on the verge of some startling military move which necessitates a change in its leadership. Best bet still fencing of attitudes among Communist spokesmen in France, Italy and the United States suggests that something is in the wind—something more significant than the ordinary run of Communist power politics. It may be that the Kremlin has been deeply impressed with something else that was in the wind a few days ago—A B-50 U. S. bomber that flew nonstop around the world.

Butter Economics

Louis Bromfield, the highly articulate author-farmer testified before a congressional committee last week in favor of federal laws to ban the manufacture and sale of colored oleo. Its competition, he asserted, would reduce the national dairy herd by 2,000,000 cows and bring on a disaster in agriculture.

Going further into butter economics, Bromfield objected to soy beans, cotton, tobacco and corn as soil-depleting crops. He himself, as is well known, favors grass farming as a national conservation measure. All of which is right and proper. But it suggests a new dimension of controversy when applied to the oleo issue.

It suggests that he believes there is a legislative right to determine what people should eat in the interests of long-term conservation. They would be discouraged from eating oleo because soy beans are not in favor as a proper crop. Corn would be prescribed. Cotton would be discouraged. Tobacco would go on the black list.

Mr. Bromfield is in dead earnest about these things. In his view, the issue is not whether the oleo manufacturers should have the right to color their product yellow should be forced by law to leave the coloring out of it. The issue is whether consumers in the United States should be permitted to eat food products made from soy beans because he is opposed to them in agricultural economics.

The Stars Say

For Tuesday, March 8
By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

WHILE the indications are for a highly stimulated urge to forge ahead in order to put over greatly desired plans and ambitions, yet such proposed objectives may be seriously blocked or finally ruined by rash, half-baked or untimely action.

The unexceptional opportunity for real progress and fulfilled hopes may be frustrated by false moves, or possibly erratic decisions not based on logic. In the long run it may be more productive to postpone vital developments for calm analysis and the support of needful cooperation from influential sources. These must be convinced.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is, may find it expedient and their wiser course to interfere with decidedly clever, and original or novel operations. Although the mentality is unusually stimulated to innovation and out-of-the-ordinary tactics or bold ideas, yet the emotions may be erratic, or fantastic, thereby alienating the interest and support of those whose cooperation may be of utmost importance. Pause for shrewd analysis, while plans and techniques may have time to incubate or develop logically. Emotions or high pressure could prove detrimental.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Epidemic That Starts Quickly

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

There is a condition, which is quite frequent in children and often noted in adults, known as epidemic vomiting. The exact cause is unknown. It is seldom found in infants under six months of age. It is not unlikely for a child with such an attack to vomit for a period of 24 hours or even longer. On examination, no physical disorder is apparent and, as a rule, lollipops, sugar or all-day suckers are all that are needed to clear up the condition.

The disorder starts suddenly, occurring most frequently during the months of October and November. There is usually no preceding complaint of sickness at the stomach. The patient has an increased thirst and craves water, but when water is given it is promptly vomited. The vomiting usually stops in about 24 hours. Following an attack, the patient may feel tired and weak, and there may be some lack of appetite for several days.

A Catching Ailment

It is apparent that this ailment is a catching one, and several members of a family may have the disorder at the same time.

In many cases, there is pain in the left lower part of the abdomen. The pain is mild and does not last very long. As a general rule, the patient does not have diarrhea. In occasional instances, there may be some slight fever for a day or two. A small amount of sugar may be present in the urine of most of the patients.

Epidemic vomiting seems to respond promptly to proper treatment. The amount of fluids given by mouth is restricted to a great extent. The patients are, however, given plenty of carbohydrates in the form of sugar. Dr. J. Edmund Bradley, of Baltimore, has found the giving of a syrup in teaspoonful doses, at intervals of from 15 to 30 minutes to be of great help. The patient is given no other preparation. Usually there is no further vomiting after several doses of the syrup have been administered.

Following the initial treatment with the syrup, the patient is permitted to have such foods as apple sauce, gelatin products, precooked cereals with sugar added, toast or crackers, and jelly. The only fluids permitted for the first 24-hour period are tea and small sips of water taken frequently. Small amount of cold carbonated drinks are also usually well tolerated. After 24 hours, other additions to the diet are gradually made.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A Reader: Would you please tell me the symptoms of sugar in the system?

Answer: I presume by sugar in the system you mean an excessive amount of sugar in the blood which occurs in diabetes. This would cause such symptoms as loss of weight and strength, excessive thirst and appetite, and perhaps itching of the skin.

An analysis of your blood for the amount of sugar present would be advisable. If you have diabetes, you should be under the care of your physician.

Letters to Dr. Bundesen should be addressed in care of 235 E. 45th St., New York City.

What Are YOUR Chances If There Are No Profits?

We are delighted to extend permission to companies, associations, or individuals to quote from or reprint all or parts of these editorial messages, with or without credit mention.

This is the 71st of a series.

Since the November 2 election there has been a dazzling variety of plans to have the government do more and more things and spend more and more money. But there is almost no variety in the plans which are suggested to raise the money.

"Pay for it by taxing profits," is the standard refrain. Slap on an "excess" profits tax. Boost the corporations' income tax rate.

Well—why not? Haven't the corporations been making so much money that a big chunk of it can be turned over to the government spenders without hurting anybody?

The answer is no!

How high profits should be can be debated endlessly. Some people claim that 1948 corporation profits, which will amount to about $20 billion, are too high. They emphasize the fact that profits are larger in relation to investment than they were a few years ago. Other people think profits are low. They stress the fact that profits are not much larger in relation to sales than they have been historically. Both sides agree that in some individual cases profits have been too high, as in others they have been too low or non-existent.

But if we cut the total volume of profits drastically, we shall do so at our national peril.

There is no room for debate about that. For we shall choke off the crucially important job of building new plants and equipment for our industries. Squeeze hard enough, and America will go the way of Britain—down the long and painful skids of industrial decline. Widespread unemployment, especially among our industrial workers who produce new plants and equipment, will mark the dreary way. Here is a fact which the President, the Congress, the C.I.O., and all of us have a real reason to remember:

Almost two thirds of all profits today are going to rebuild and improve plants and equipment.

More than $13 billion of this year's profits are being plowed back. They are going—as a large proportion of profits have always gone—to buy for workers better tools to work with, better surroundings in which to work. They are making possible better products, and more of them, for all of us.

The figures below show how companies have put more and more profit-dollars and a larger share of their profits to work in the business:

YEAR	PROFITS REINVESTED	% OF TOTAL PROFITS
1929	$2.6 billion	31%
1939	1.2 "	24%
1943	5.9 "	57%
1944	5.2 "	53%
1945	4.2 "	47%
1946	6.9 "	55%
1947	11.2 "	62%
1948 est.	13.0 "	65%

The record shows that each of us is the real beneficiary of this plowing back of profits.

Every American has benefited from these profits because: Each dollar that business has put into its plants and equipment in the last thirty years has increased our yearly production by 35 cents.

This re-investment of profits has helped make possible a 75% increase in living standards since 1919.

It has helped increase wages from an average 48 cents an hour in 1919 to $1.36 today. Allowing for higher prices, that increase means that an hour's work today will buy twice as much as it did thirty years ago.

Why must business retain these billions of profits to improve its plants and equipment? Why must it plow back more and more? The reason is that business already is caught in a tax squeeze.

Federal taxes alone take at least thirty-eight of each one hundred dollars a company earns. Then, if the company pays out to its stockholders any part of what is left as dividends, the federal personal income taxes of the stockholders may take up to 77% of those dividends. Under these conditions, so few people are willing to invest in industry that the stock market is stagnant. Companies can not raise in that market the money they need for improvements.

The result: business must rely more and more on plowed-back profits to pay for new plants and equipment.

We know that everywhere in industry new and better ways of producing goods are standing ready for use. The previous editorial in this series mentioned some of them. We know, too, that depression and war put our industries far behind schedule—as much as $100 billion behind—in getting the new tools they should have had to keep themselves in first-class shape. McGraw-Hill is now completing a survey of industry that will measure these needs. The results will be published in this editorial series. We know already that in 1949 alone industry will need $18 billion or more for this purpose.

And all but a small fraction of that sum must come from profits.

Our prosperity, our strength as a nation, our hopes for better living depend on our continuing to generate and to plow back a large volume of profits.

For that reason we should not thoughtlessly follow those people who propose to pay for any and all new government activities by saying simply, "Soak the corporations." There is no need to follow them. There are other ways of obtaining necessary funds.

First and foremost should be economy within the government itself. If its citizens must pay still higher taxes, then surely government should exercise rigid self-restraint, cutting out all but the most essential activities and expenses.

After economy should come consideration of a broader federal tax base.

If these and other methods of raising money are inadequate and if taxes must take a bigger bite from business profits, two facts are clear. We should not adopt an "excess" profits tax with all of its complications and all of its corrupting effect on business. A moderate increase in the regular income tax on corporations is much less dangerous. But even such an increase, if necessary, should be accompanied by special allowances for expansion and depreciation that will encourage companies to continue spending their earnings for new plant and equipment. We all have a stake in that.

At this critical juncture in our history profits have a new and vastly more important role than they have ever had. In unprecedented degree they are the drive behind our present prosperity and the key to a better, stronger future.

Give profits the axe, and the blow does not stop there.

It cuts into the employment, the prosperity and the strength of our nation.

Everyone of us has a stake in how the President and Congress handle taxes on profits—and now is the time to remind them of that stake.

Jeanne Breault Wed To Norman Smith Saturday

White chantilly lace fashioned the gown worn by Miss Jeanne Breault for her wedding at 4 p. m. Saturday to Norman Smith in the sanctuary of the First Presbyterian church.

Rev. Harold L. Ogden officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father to the strains of the traditional wedding marches played by the church organist, Miss Anna Cook. The pre-nuptial recital included "Clair de lune," "Ave Maria" and "The Lord's Prayer." Jerry Rice, soloist, sang "Because."

Palms, fern and grape-vine ivy banked the chancel which was lighted by twin candelabra.

A shawl collar, fitted bodice and ballerina-length skirt styled the bride's gown. White lace mitts reached above her elbow, while the lace from the tiara in her hair, fell to her shoulders, framing her face. The deep shawl collar enhanced the double strand of pearls which she wore.

She carried a large white orchid fastened to a white Bible with a shower arrangement of maidenhair fern and schizanthus.

Mrs. Walter Turner, sister of the bride, was her matron of honor. Her gown, which was similar to the bride's, but in a pale blue shade, had an under skirting of blue satin. Satin and lace in blue made her polk bonnet, and she wore a contrasting yellow rose corsage.

Thomas Bush of Chicago was the best man and Wayne Brown of Texas, and Walter Turner served their brother-in-law as ushers.

Mrs. H. A. Breault chose a rose and brown ensemble for her daughter's wedding, while Mrs. Mabel Weaver, mother of the groom, appeared in grey and pink. Their corsages were gardenias.

After the ceremony Mrs. Weaver was hostess to the immediate family at a supper party in her home on W. School st.

Two hundred friends and relatives from Salem, Alliance, Leetonia, Pittsburgh, Pa., Texas and California greeted the bride and groom at the reception in the evening in the Turner home on S. Union ave.

A four-tiered cake, topped with a bride and groom in miniature, was served the guests at the buffet table. The informal evening and the reception was arranged by Mrs. Turner, Mrs. Pete Herman and Mrs. Michael Raddick of Pittsburgh, all sisters of the bride. Mrs. Ben Flicker of Alliance also assisted.

The couple opened their many gifts and later left on their honeymoon. For going away the bride wore a green sardine suit and the orchid from her bridal bouquet. They will be home next week at their apartment at 976 S. Lincoln ave.

Both are graduates of Salem High school. She is employed as an operator by Ohio Bell Telephone Co., while he is a salesman for the Amster-Kirtz Co.

Mrs. Smith is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Breault of Jennings ave. and Mr. Smith is the son of Mrs. Mabel Weaver of W. School st.

Thursday Club Entertained

Sewing and fancywork entertained members of the Thursday club who met Thursday in the home of Mrs. John Lora on the Garfield rd.

Mrs. Bruce Riley and Mrs. Dale Malmberg assisted Mrs. Lora with the lunch.

Mrs. Elizabeth Yates Honored At Party

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Yates of W. Fifth st., was the scene of a delightful dinner party Sunday, held in celebration of the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Elizabeth Yates of W. Fourth st.

The picturesque table was centered with a birthday cake decorated in yellow and graced by an arrangement of yellow daisies and pansies. Places were arranged for 19 relatives.

Mrs. Yates received gifts. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Norman Yates of Damascus and Wallace Enloelet of Greenford. Others were from Salem.

Miss Eyster Is Bride At Columbiana

In one of the most beautiful weddings of the season, Miss Twila Eyster of Washingtonville, and Harry McBride, Jr., of Columbiana, exchanged their marriage vows at 2 p. m. Sunday in the Columbiana Methodist church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Eyster of Washingtonville.

Mr. McBride is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry McBride of Columbiana.

Custom of open church was observed.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride made a charming picture as she walked to the altar in a white slipper satin gown, fashioned with a round neckline, sheer yoke outlined in a seed pearl design and lace, long sleeves, pointed at the wrist, and a full skirt with a court train. Completing her bridal costume, she wore a fingertip net lace-trimmed veil, which fell from a crown of pearled orange blossoms. She wore a string of pearls, the groom's gift, and carried a bouquet of calla lilies centered with a orchid.

James Hum of Columbiana was best man.

As maid of honor, Miss Wilma Kabler of Columbiana, appeared in a distinctive gown of gold-colored satin, designed with a sweetheart neckline, puffed sleeves, fitted bodice and a full skirt. Down the side of the bodice and at the waist-line were roses of the same material.

Bridesmaids were Miss Carol Eyster, sister of the bride; Miss Jean Klingensmith of Columbiana, and Miss Shirley Hinerman of Washingtonville.

Their gowns of blue, rose and aqua satin, respectively, were styled identical to the maid of honor. They wore halos to match their gowns, long mitts and carried bouquets of roses and carnations. Their rhinestone bracelets were gifts of the bride.

Ushers were Robert Eyster, Jr., brother of the bride, and Donald and Charles McBride, brothers of the groom. Men in the bridal party were given cuff-links.

Miss Greathouse, cousin of the bride, flower girl, in a lovely rose satin formal, carried a basket of mixed flowers. She wore a gold locket, the bride's gift.

Mrs. Robert Cline of Columbiana played the love melodies before the service and accompanied William Stirling of Washingtonville, who sang, "Because," "The Lord's Prayer," "Always" and "I Love You Truly." The traditional wedding marches were included.

During the double ring ceremony, performed by Rev. William Longworth, the bridal party stood in front of an artistic altar arrangement of palms, ferns intermingled with white snapdragons and carnations, lighted by white candles in tall seven-branch candelabra.

Mrs. Eyster chose an aqua and black print for her daughter's wedding, with matching accessories. Mrs. McBride was costumed in a rose and navy print. Both wore corsages of red roses and white carnations.

Attend Conference Of Legion Groups

Mrs. R. W. Broomall, 10th district president of the American Legion auxiliary; Mrs. Matilda Miller, district rehabilitation chairman; Mrs. C. L. Ricker, president of the Salem unit, and Mrs. Harold Wyckoff were in Columbus this weekend to attend the mid-winter conference of units.

Accompanying the Salem women were Mrs. Arthur Greene of Paris, national executive committee woman of the auxiliary, and Mrs. Russell Smith of Leetonia.

The 10th district won in a membership contest with District 1, for which Mrs. Broomall was presented a gift. The 10th district also won five membership prizes.

Mrs. Hubert Goode, of Portland, Ore., national president, was honored at the annual banquet Saturday night.

There were 820 registered for the conference and over 600 at the banquet.

Mrs. DelVichio Feted At Surprise Party

Mrs. Lucy DelVichio was honor guest at a surprise dinner party Sunday in celebration of her 60th birthday.

The delightful affair, was arranged in her home on the Lisbon rd. in her absence by Mrs. Milo Adams, Jr., and Mrs. Charles DelVichio, her daughter and daughter-in-law. Mrs. Edward Danler also assisted. On her return home 15 guests greeted her.

Mrs. DelVichio was remembered with many gifts and cards and a bouquet of roses. She also received a phone call from her sister, Mrs. Charles C. Greene of New York City. Friends were present from Freedom and Beaver Falls, Pa.

A large decorated cake centered the dinner table.

Ellsworth Road Club To Have Luncheon

Mrs. Gale Barchy will entertain the Ellsworth Road club Thursday, starting with a coverdish luncheon at noon.

Charles Blean and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Blean of Cleveland spent Sunday with relatives here.

Youngstown, Lisbon and Alliance were entertained at a reception in the church parlors. A five-tiered wedding cake topped with an ornate enhanced the refreshment table.

The bride graduated from Leetonia High school and is employed by the Turner Engineering Co., Salem.

Mr. McBride is a graduate of the Columbiana High school. He is an employee of the Columbiana Engineering Co.

After a southern honeymoon trip, Mr. and Mrs. McBride will reside at 129 E. Park ave., Columbiana.

The bride traveled in a green brocade satin dress and brown coat, and wore the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

grange hall in Greenford from 1 till 5 p. m.

Assisting in the reception will be their son, Wilbur and his wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Rotzel were married at the Greenford parish of the Lutheran church by the late Rev. Charles H. Armstrong on March 9, 1899. They have been life-long members of the Lutheran church in Greenford. They have owned and operated the farm where they still live.

No cards have been issued but friends and relatives will be welcomed.

School Faculty To Have Party

The first faculty party of the year for teachers and administration of Salem High school will be held March 15 at Parkview Inn, Canfield.

In charge of arrangements for the dinner affair are Mrs. Claribel Bickie, chairman, Mrs. Pearl Taylor, Miss Lois Lehman, Cyril Lipa, and Chester Brautigam.

A St. Patrick's day theme will prevail.

Approximately 50 of the High school staff and their wives and husbands are expected to attend. A program and social games are scheduled following the dinner.

Freshmen Bring Opera Star

At a Friday afternoon assembly Piero Pierotic, European opera star, will present a program in the High school auditorium. The freshmen class is sponsoring the recital with funds secured through the sale of pencils.

Pierotic, a baritone, is scheduled to sing popular tunes as well as selections from familiar operas.

The Teen-Age Book club, recently organized at the High school, made its first book distribution last week. The book selection included: "The Babe Ruth Story," "Captains Courageous," "Wild Animals I Have Known," "Tawny" and "A City of Bells."

Miss Lois Lehman, librarian, and Miss Helen Therp, English instructor, are advisors of the club.

Attorney To Speak To I. H. S. Class

Atty. Lozier Caplan will be guest speaker at a meeting of the I. H. S. class of Holy Trinity Lutheran church at 8 p. m. Tuesday at the church.

Atty. Caplan will discuss Jewish customs and holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Verna Greenfield and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Platt will be hosts.

Mrs. Lloyd Walker Entertains Guests

Complimenting Mrs. Fred Ruprecht of Wheeling, Ill., Mrs. Lloyd Walker entertained 18 relatives and friends Friday evening at her home Buckeye Circle.

The hours were enjoyed informally with games.

St. Patrick's day appointments were used effectively in the lunch appointments.

Mrs. Della Farmer, who has been ill for some weeks, was taken Sunday to the Oak Grove Rest home, Canfield.

Lera Slagle To Wed Donald Bush

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Slagle of Youngstown announce the engagement of their daughter, Lera, to Donald Bush, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Bush of Washingtonville, at a party Saturday evening at their home.

The "news" came on "telegrams" received by each of the 25 guests, who were from Washingtonville and Leetonia.

Miss Slagle graduated from Goshen High school and is employed in the Electric Furnace Co. office.

The groom-to-be is a senior in the Leetonia High school.

The couple plan a mid-summer wedding.

Legion Auxiliary To Hear Speaker

Erhold Zealley, superintendent of City hospital, will be guest speaker at the Tuesday evening session of the American Legion auxiliary in the new home.

Music will be furnished by the nurses chorus at the hospital.

Mrs. Arthur Rice, community service chairman, will be in charge. Lunch will be served.

Mrs. Paul Reasor of Home Circle returned Sunday from Dayton by plane. She had visited for 11 days with her mother in Indianapolis and sister in Dayton.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lippitt and Mr. and Mrs. William Burnip of the Benton rd. have returned from a vacation trip to Florida.

Methodist Groups Meet This Week

Group meetings of the Methodist Women's Society of Christian Service are scheduled for Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Miss Margaret Hatten of Alliance, former missionary to Puerto Rico, will be guest speaker at a meeting of Group 7 at 8 p. m. Tuesday in the church parlor.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Harold Smith, Mrs. Homer S. Taylor, Mrs. D. G. McElroy and Mrs. Rinie Wark.

TOLEDO MAN LOSES 38 LBS. WITH RENNEL

"My wife and I both praise Rennel highly," writes Mr. G. C. Bruce, 227 Broadway, Toledo 4, Ohio. "Since taking Rennel I have lost 38 lbs., and I haven't had to go hungry or deny myself of foods. My wife has also lost weight and double praises Rennel. Since losing those extra pounds her high blood pressure is reduced and she feels better than she has for years."

Imagine, eat plenty and lose weight with this simple yet effective amazing home recipe. After purchasing a bottle of Rennel from your druggist put the contents into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it. No diets to complicate your meal planning. No expensive vitamins to fortify your system from weakness while going without food for you can eat normally. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose pounds of bulky fat and help regain slender, more youthful curves—if reducible excess fat doesn't seem to disappear almost like magic just return the empty bottle to the manufacturer for your money back. Don't be switched to another product, insist on genuine Rennel.

COLUMBIANA, March 7—Members of the Kiwanis club, accompanied by their sons, will go to Washingtonville this evening for a father and son banquet at the Methodist church there.

Ralph Elser, former sheriff of Mahoning county, will be the speaker, and a Leontina male quartet will sing.

On account of the illness of Paul Ross, program chairman, there will be no formal program at the meeting of the Rotary club this evening. The meeting will be given over to an open discussion of club activities.

C. of C. Officers to Meet

Both the old and newly-elected officers of the Chamber of Commerce will meet in the High school building Monday evening at 8:15.

Couple Married

Mrs. Margaret Cunningham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoover, 116 Basin st., Hollidaysburg, Pa., and Russell Lamomcha, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Lamomcha, R. D. 2, Columbiana, were married Saturday afternoon, Feb. 19, at 2:30, in Zion Lutheran church, Hollidaysburg.

Rev. Ernest N. Bauer, pastor, performed the ceremony in the presence of relatives and friends of the couple. Mr. and Mrs. Lamomcha arrived in Columbiana the last of the week from a honeymoon in Florida, and will occupy an apartment in the residence of Mrs. Maude Hoffman, S. Middle st.

Mrs. Lamomcha had been serving as secretary of the Hollidaysburg board of education. Mr. Lamomcha, a graduate of Fairfield Centralized High school, is a veteran of three years in the U. S. Army, having served in the European theater during the late war. He is employed in the K. W. Ferrall pattern works here.

Mrs. Leo Sponseller of Court st. left by plane Friday for Mesa, Ariz., where she will make an indefinite stay at the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Sponseller.

The 100 Per Cent class of the Presbyterian church, Kenneth Spahr, president, will meet Tuesday evening at 8 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray McCormick, east of town on the New Waterford road. A special program has been planned. Hostesses will be Mrs. Marjorie McCormick and Mrs. Alma Justice.

Installed as Pastor
Rev. Willis Varian, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Varian of Columbiana, was installed Sunday, Feb. 27, as pastor of St. John's Lutheran church, rural parish near Fort Wayne, Ind.

He was previously pastor of St. Paul's church in Inlay City, Mich. His parents and sister, Gloria, were present at his recent installation.

Friendly Folks will have a smorgasbord dinner at Jerusalem Lutheran church Tuesday evening at 6:30.

Eugene E. Haney, formerly of Columbiana, has completed extra work at Ohio university and with his wife and son, Ronald, has located at Middletown, where he has a position as chemist in the research department of the American Rolling Mills Co.

Music Makers club will meet at the Presbyterian church this evening to practice for their singing at the meeting of the Music Study club Wednesday evening.

Tomorrow will be the last day representatives of the county auditor's office will be at the Union bank to assist taxpayers with their personal returns.

Commander H. A. Ludwig of Firestone Legion post has tickets for the birthday banquet of Columbiana county legionnaires in the East Palestine Methodist church Tuesday evening, March 15. Reservations must be made not later than Friday, March 11. The banquet will be in observance of the Legion's 30th anniversary.

Meter Action Deferred
City council met in special session Thursday evening to consider specifications for an advertisement for bids on the installation of parking meters in the business quarter of S. Main st. Action was deferred to afford time for Solicitor R. G. Oaks to draft a tentative set of details.

Rev. and Mrs. H. E. Hegstrom of Des Moines, Ia., will conduct a Bible convention in the Church of the Nazarene, beginning Tuesday evening and continuing until Sunday, March 20. Services will be held every evening at 7:45. Mrs. Hegstrom will assist her husband with piano-accompaniment and other music.

Contributions to the Red Cross fund for Columbiana and Fairfield township may be made at either of the banks. H. A. Truesdell, chairman of the drive, announces that if voluntary contributions are sufficient, there will be no house-to-house canvass.

Leontonia Booster Roster Totals 82

LEONTONIA, March 7—The Leontonia Boosters club reports 82 paid memberships for 1949 to date.

The club has agreed to undertake the securing and laying of the drain tile necessary for proper drainage of the playground. The estimated cost is about $1,000 if all the work is hired done. There will be 1,200 feet of 6 and 8 inch tile to be furnished and laid together with the fill-to-grade which must be done before construction of the ball diamond and other layouts are started.

Carl H. Varian will serve as general chairman of the American Legion-Booster club annual Homecoming.

Mrs. D. E. Fair entertained the South Side Sewing club at her home Friday evening.

Essay Contest Winner

Miss Margaret Sherwood, a senior at Leontonia High school, has been awarded second first place for her essay "The American Way—What is It?" in the American Legion contest.

This week her essay was awarded first place in the tenth district for 12th graders and will be sent to Columbus where it will compete with other district winners from the state.

Miss Sherwood is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert F. Sherwood, Chestnut st., and the local delegate from the Ladies auxiliary to G. A. S. State last year.

Elmer Sweeley, sophomore at Ohio Northern university, is spending a week's vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Sweeley, Mr. and Mrs. Dan DiPanfilio are the parents of a son born Thursday at Salem City hospital.

Mrs. Leonard Warner entered the North Side unit of the Youngstown City hospital Thursday for an operation.

Revision of Ohio
Legal Labyrinth
Rep. Smith's Goal

By REED SMITH

COLUMBUS, March 7—Anyone ever hopelessly lost in Ohio's convoluted legal labyrinth without a seeing-eye lawyer should be very fond of Rep. John L. Smith, (D-Summit).

He wants the laws written in "every-day" English for everyone to understand.

The handsome Barberton attorney has introduced a bill in the house of representatives to do just that.

He said today a survey of Ohio laws shows many of them "ambiguous and conflicting." It may stand as the understatement of the year.

Smith wants two full-time clerks hired for the legislative reference bureau where most bills are drafted up. They would get $3,000 a year to put new statutes in simple language.

Not that Smith means to criticize the bureau. It does a great job, but, Smith says:

"It has been following a pattern in vogue in congress and the state legislature for years. The time has come for Ohio to take the lead in changing this pattern."

"It's difficult for the lawmakers themselves to understand some of the bills. And that isn't strange. Some bills are so confusing and legalistic in their language they would stump an expert."

And John Smith may have something there. Here's a sample at random from a uniform partnership act now pending in the general assembly. In the middle of page 6, it reads:

"Sec. 8105-16. When a person, by words spoken or written or by conduct, represents himself, or consents to another representing him to any one, as a partner in an existing partnership or with one or more persons not actual partners, he is liable to any such person to whom such representation has been made, who has, on the faith of such representation, given credit to the actual or apparent partnership, and if he had made such representation or consented to its being made in a public manner he is liable to such person, whether the representation has or has not been made or communicated to such person so giving credit by or with the knowledge of the apparent partner making the representation or consenting to its being made."

Of course, that's clear enough! But if Smith can get it broken into little pieces and keep it legal, he may have something.

Seek New Contract
UHRICHSVILLE, March 7—An AFL United Brick and Clay workers negotiation committee announced it would seek a new contract with sewer pipe manufacturers to include a 10-cent-an-hour wage increase for day workers and a 20 per cent boost for piece workers. Union leaders and manufacturers will meet March 10 in Akron with Paul Fuller, federal labor mediator.

Humiliated, Files Suit

LISBON, March 7—A $2,500 damage action for false attachment and humiliation was filed in common pleas court here by John Carter of Wellsville, against Harry Hammond, a justice of the peace of that city, and W. F. McWhorter, doing business as the Potters Adjustment Bureau of East Liverpool.

The plaintiff charges that Justice Hammond maliciously, falsely and without reasonable cause attached and garnished wages of the plaintiff at the Crucible Steel Co., in utter disregard of law, and that he had conspired with the Potters Adjustment Bureau to injure and harm the plaintiff.

Carter stated that he was never indebted to the Metz Fur Co. of East Liverpool, and the facts in the attachment are not true, and alleges injury to his reputation through humiliation and ridicule, for which he seeks damages.

Quakers Topple East Palestine 41-39 To Stay In Tourney; Meet Lisbon Outfit Wednesday

Miller's Sophomores Shine In Close Game; Callahan, Miner Each Have Good Night

BY BOB DIXON

Track season will have to wait a little longer, friends. The lads who postponed it are Bob Miller's Salem High cagers, who came through with an unexpected victory over East Palestine Saturday night in their first start in district basketball tournament play in the Youngstown South field house.

Setting down their county rivals by a 41-39 count, the Quakers averaged a 54-44 defeat at the hands of the Bulldogs earlier this season and snapped a two game tournament losing streak.

The win set up a "natural" for 8:30 Wednesday night, when the Quakers meet Jack Mills' Lisbon Blue Devils, who turned in a neat last half Saturday to top Warren Harding 44-37.

The Columbiana county rivals will thus meet for the second time this season, Salem losing the opener to the Blue Devils 53-31.

It was a sweet win Saturday for Miller and his cagers, who have had their share of ups and downs this year—mostly downs. Although no one is suffering from any delusions of grandeur in that a district title is anticipated, the victory did cap the season with a little sunshine.

It was the Quakers sixth win in 18 starts and perhaps their most satisfying. Evidence of the exciting game is shown in that the score was tied four times and the lead changed hands 11 times.

It was sensational play by Salem's three leading Sophomore cagers that put the game in the win column. The trio, Jim Callahan, Don Abrams and Bob Theiss, justified all the faith Miller put in them. Saturday night they scored 24 of Salem's 41 points.

Callahan, who netted 14 for high point honors, started the game, but the other two weren't sent in until midway in the second quarter. Up to that point, Salem wasn't going anywhere. They were trailing 15-11.

Things looked up, though, as Callahan hit a bucket and Theiss banged in two in a row to give the Quakers a 17-16 lead. It put the locals back in the game and they weren't far off the pace the rest of the night.

Sharing scoring honors with Callahan was Tommy Miner, hard-working Senior, who bagged 10 points. He contributed some fine shooting from around the foul circle and under the hoop.

With the three Sophomores, Miner and Ed Bozich in the game as the half ended, Salem appeared to have its strongest five of the season. They came back on after intermission, down one point, 24-23. The combination remained intact most of the third period until Miller replaced Bozich with George Reash and Theiss with Biggie Faulkner.

The latter move was necessitated when Miller ordered a pressing defense. He said he felt that Faulkner could handle the assignment better. At the time Johnny Nolan was causing the Quakers a lot of trouble and Faulkner handled him well.

The press did more to upset the Palestine offense than any other Quaker move of the evening. From that point on the Bulldogs got little in the way of good shots and were more than a bit flustered in the back court.

"I'm proud of these kids," Miller said after the tilt, referring to his three Soph. proteges. "They've come along fine all season and are just now hitting their stride."

The three turned in most of the rebounds for Salem while in the game and the general improvement in the team was evident the moment the lineup changed.

Excitement was high in the last three minutes of the tilt. A push shot by Abrams gave Salem a 29-27 edge at the three minute mark. Action grew hot from there on. The Bulldogs missed two consecutive free throws and the Quakers one and then the Palestine team started to take their fouls out of bounds.

Salem's big basket came on a fast break off a broken-up Palestine pass. Jim Callahan turned on all his speed to roar under the basket and cradle the ball into the hoop on a leaping layup, putting Salem four points ahead.

Nolan came back almost immediately to hoop a two-pointer for the final score of the game. The Bulldogs took another foul out of bounds but couldn't score. With 1:30 left, Salem began a frenzy which continued until Faulkner was fouled in close.

He shot and missed his first shot and then took the second out. A jump ball gave Palestine possession, but they couldn't find the hoop. Salem again stalled, lost and regained the ball after a floor error gave their rivals another chance. A jump ball near the Palestine hoop gave them one more shot, before the final whistle.

An oddity of the Quakers' victory is revealed in the free throw column. They caged only one charity toss all night, missing seven—their worst mark of the season. They failed 26 times from the floor to the Bulldogs' 15. The latter garnered nine of 18 fouls.

In all, 17 fouls were called on Salem and nine on Palestine. Salem moved well against the Palestine team defense, which stayed intact until the waning moments

VEECK HOPING TO SIGN BALKY MEN IN TUCSON TODAY

Bearden, Lemon, Gordon Still Unsigned; Other Camps Active

NEW YORK, March 7.—(AP)—Bill Veck, president of the Cleveland Indians, is encountering more difficulty than expected in getting some key members of his World Championship combine in the fold.

Twenty game winners Gene Bearden and Bob Lemon and Second Sacker Joe Gordon still are dissatisfied over terms. Also listed as holdouts are infielder Johnny Berardino and Catcher Hank Ruzkowski.

Veck expects to sign Bearden, Lemon, Gordon and Berardino, who are at the Tribe's Tucson, Ariz., base, today. Ruzkowski still is at his home in Cleveland.

Ted Williams and Stan Spence, Boston Red Sox outfielders came to terms yesterday. Williams okayed a contract reportedly calling for $100,000. The slugging outfielder said he may retire after 1951 "if I have enough money." Boston Brave Catcher Phil Masi also put his name on the dotted line leaving Outfielder Jeff Heath the lone Brave balker.

Mike Guerra, Cuban catcher of the Philadelphia Athletics, hasn't showed at the A's camp and Manager Connie Mack is peeved. "Boston refused to pass on Guerra last year," Mack said. "Maybe they'll claim him again," he added. However, Mack didn't say he placed Guerra's name on the waiver list. . . . Gran Hamner is off to a great start in his bid to take the shortstop berth away from his Philadelphia Phillie teammate, Eddie Miller. Hamner belted out a homer, double, and three singles and drove in five runs in an intra-squad game yesterday.

Pittsburgh Pirate Manager Bill Meyer is giving plenty of attention to Rookie Pitcher Bill Lathrop who won 20 games and lost 3 for Santa Rosa last year. Meyer also likes the work of Bill Werle, up from San Francisco. . . . The Brooklyn Dodgers are practicing the pick off play made famous by the Cleveland Indians in the World Series. Augie Galan, veteran outfielder signed as a free agent by the New York Giants, demonstrated he still can hit. Galan belted a two-run pinch hit single in the Giants' first intra-squad game yesterday. . . . New York Yankee Manager Casey Stengel feels certain that Fred Sanford, secured from the St. Louis Browns for $100,000 will win 15 games easy. Sanford also is of the same opinion.

An old Cincinnati Reds' weakness—puny hitting—has popped up already.

Manager Bucky Walters had the boys out for their first intra-squad game yesterday but except for First Baseman Ted Kluszewski's efforts there wasn't much in the way of good solid slugging.

Hank Sauer's Sauerkrauts licked Grady Hatton's Bombers, 5 to 4, in the first game of the spring training season with Kluszewski belting a home run and two singles.

EXCELLENT FOUL SHOOTING GIVES LISBON VICTORY

Blue Devils Move to Game With Salem On 44-37 Win Over Warren

Lisbon High's dangerous Blue Devils, opponents for Salem's Quakers in a Wednesday tourney affair, proved once again that it isn't vital necessary to out-score an opponent from the floor in order to win a basketball game.

Virtually out-played throughout by Warren on the basket-making department, Lisbon managed to win its tourney opener Saturday 44-37 on excellent foul shooting.

The Blue Devils dumped through 22 of 30 shots while Warren was able to mesh only five of 14 attempts at the free throw line. The Blue Devils staged a foul shooting rally in the final period, putting through 10 of its 14 points from the black line.

Warren had appeared the faster, smoother team throughout the contest and led all the way until the final frame. At the quarter it was 10-7 Warren and the Black Panthers were ahead 22-16 at the half.

Never out of the tilt, Lisbon trailed 33-39 as the fourth began, but moved slowly ahead as the Warren outfit continued to foul.

The Lisbon scoring was unusually well divided, Don Brinker and Bud Woods leading the way with 10 each. Frank Pezzano and Don Ward each caged nine and Barnes put through six points. Lisbon made only 11 baskets to 16 for Warren.

The Salem-Lisbon fray is set for 8:30 p. m. Wednesday.

DEPT. OF CONJECTURE

Salem hasn't any immediate hopes of winning the state title, or even the district championship, but it's going to have a lot of fun out of this Class A tournament in the process of doing whatever is in the cards for it.

That was shown Saturday evening when Bob Miller and his Quakers took a welcome scalp by avenging a previous 54-44 loss to East Palestine. The Quakers turned the trick neatly, calmly and just as if they had known it all the time.

This, of course, is not to say that the game was in the bag all the way. It was far from that. It was rough and tense going for Salem from the start and no one would have said either team was the winner until that final buzzer blew.

But the Quakers went into the fray figured as the definite underdogs. The psychological edge was theirs from the start but they certainly didn't look at any time like a team that expected to be whipped.

Perhaps that is the reason they won. Throughout the past two weeks the players, hepped up far more than anyone in the community has been, have said over and over again that they expected to go in the tourney. They were convinced they were going to beat Palestine.

It was fine talk, showed good spirit and fine ambition. But beyond that the average fan didn't take it too seriously. After all, a team that loses 11 and wins only five isn't supposed to go anywhere.

The same situation is coming up again Wednesday. The odds, if anything, are even heavier against Salem managing a victory over Lisbon. The Tri-County league champions, coached by Jack Mills, are not a polished basketball team but they have an uncanny ability for winning.

They have been dropped just four times this season, while winning 15. The victory over Warren Saturday shows the come-back spirit of Mills' aggregation. They were behind three quarters of the way, but managed to come out seven points to the good.

By all rights Salem should have no reason to expect to beat the Blue Devils Wednesday. After all, Lisbon trounced the locals 53-51 in the first game of the year and if both teams had improved equally through the season, the only gain Salem could hope for would be the difference in the Lisbon home court and South field house.

But you can rest assured that Miller's midgets don't feel that way. They figure they're due to avenge the loss to Lisbon. Don't try to tell them otherwise for it's useless. And what's more, they may just do it!

Probably the most impressive thing about Salem Saturday was the fine improvement, obvious in the Sophomores on the squad. Jimmy Callahan, who has had glue on his shooting hand all year, fired like a Kentucky Wildcat and the 14 points justify the pastime.

Don Abrams, the player who has shown the greatest improvement in the shortest time, was rebounding like a veteran and showed more and more desire to get in the middle of the rough going. His game was unusually good and bodes promise for future SHS' varsities.

Dependable Bobby Theiss, no slouch himself at rebounding, worked like a charm during his stay in the fray. His coolness, as he entered in the second quarter, contributed to the establishment of steady, more solid offense for the Quakers than they had shown with others in the game.

Theiss, of the three Sophomores deniable excellence of Tommy Miner, who has yet to show signs of slowing down in any contest. Miner, without a doubt, gives his all throughout and is the Quakers' sparkplug.

Wednesday's tangle should be interesting.

TOURNEY ODDS AND ENDS

The showing of Canton South Saturday, of course, was so impressive as to be better mentioned as far as Salem is concerned. Coach Red Ash, who produces powerhouse year in and year out, deserves a bouquet for a fine job of tutoring again this year. . . . His lightning fast outfit is the closest thing the Youngstown tourney has to a super powerhouse this season. . . . Particularly noticeable has been the marked improvement in the play of six-foot four-inch Bud Harbold, whom Ash has converted from a gangly, awkward kid of a year ago into the smoothest looking pivot man we've seen all year. . . .

The turnout of 3,300 fans Saturday was amazing to everyone connected with the Youngstown tourney. . . . Dave Williams, the manager, was quite surprised that Saturday is the biggest night in paid admissions so far. . . . Joe Check, originally scheduled as one of the tournament officials, had

Golden Eagle Team, With Big 1011 Game, Leads In Opening Of Bowling Tourney

Featuring a big 1011 game, including their 69-pin handicap, the Salem Golden Eagle bowling team took over first place in the Salem Bowling association's annual city tournament Sunday.

Bowling on the K & J Rec lanes in Washingtonville, the Golden Eagle squad rolled on the 3:30 shift yesterday. Their two other games tallied 947 and 919.

Bill Hull paced the team, with 558, Glenn Slagle had 544 and Glenn Oesch 538. L. Lane and Mike Hutter followed with 517 and 513.

Only nine pins behind is the Classic league Eagles team from Salem, with 2868. Jack Young, with 574, and Jack Galchick, with 568, led the way.

The first 14 teams in the tournament follow: 2877—Golden Eagle, 2868—Eagles (Classic), 2821—Eagons, 2777—Sponsellers, 2764—Russells, 2750—Quaker Pastry, 2730—Eagles (Q.C.), 2737—Deming Dept. 12, 2730—Bennetts, 2729—Ripples, 2716—Town Hall Diner.

In College Play

Gloria Vincent, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Vincent, R. D. 3, Salem, is in the cast of "St. Claudia," next production of the dramatics department at Mount Union college, Alliance.

"St. Claudia," written by Marshall Gould, is a religious play depicting the crucifixion of Christ. It will be presented at the college on the evenings of March 21 and 22. The cast will also visit churches in Ohio, including Massillon, East Palestine, Akron, Sebring, Carrollton, Minerva, Cleveland, and Salem.

Miss Vincent is a freshman at Mount Union. She is a pledge of Alpha Chi Omega sorority, and a member of the Student Christian association. Miss Vincent was also on the Homecoming court last fall.

Accident Damages Cars

Two cars were damaged in a light accident on Route 45, one mile south of Salem at 4:40 p. m. Sunday, the state highway patrol reported.

Richard J. Sekely, 16, of R. D. 3, Salem, slowed to make a left turn into his driveway and his car was struck from behind by another operated by Thomas A. Wood, 44, of East Liverpool. Both were heading south.

The front of Wood's car was damaged, as was the rear of Sekely's.

Rotary Speaker

"When Salem Was Young" will be the topic of a talk by W. H. Matthews at the Tuesday noon meeting of the Rotary club in the Memorial building.

The 1948 district Rotary Youth assembly will be held at Lake Erie College for Women March 28 with the Painesville Rotary club acting as host. Those representing Salem will be Harold Benson, Peter Presce, Rev. J. R. Gaffney, William Sponseller and John Mulford.

Grass Fires Checked

The fire department extinguished two grass fires Saturday afternoon, the only blazes reported last week.

A fire at 999 Jennings ave. was reported at 2:06 p. m. Saturday, and another at the rear of 1240 E. Third st. at 2:51 p. m. Chief Vincent Malloy said.

Lions Club Speaker

Stu Wilson, WKBN staff announcer, is scheduled to speak before the Lions club at the meeting Tuesday evening at the Lape hotel. Clyde Williams is program chairman.

Quota Club Dinner

Members of the Quota club will meet at 6 p. m. Tuesday in the Memorial building for a dinner meeting.

After the business meeting a film, "The Telephone Hour," will be shown.

How Alert Police Saved Jumper

Sketches at right show how policemen rescued Mrs. Lillian Paul, 39, as she dangled by her coat from the eighth floor window (circled) of the Waacker hotel in Chicago. Sketch 1 depicts Policemen Francis Sherrier leaning out of an adjoining window trying to reach Mrs. Paul, caught by the window which fell as she leaped after leaving a suicide note. Then (sketch 2), policemen Henry Dahm and Leonard Anderson hold Sherrier's legs as he reaches out for the woman. A hotel employee (sketch 3) raised the window and Mrs. Paul and patrolman Sherrier were hauled back to safety.

Salem Girl Initiated

Miss Joy M. Chessman daughter of S. C. Chessman, of 402 Highland ave., was initiated recently into Alpha Delta chapter of Kappa Alpha Theta. She is a freshman student at Goucher college, Baltimore, Md.

Special Meeting

Amvets will hold a special meeting at 8:30 tonight in the home.

Meeting Tonight

Charles H. Carey post, American Legion, will meet at 8 tonight.

American Babies Eat Too Much, Doctor Says

MINNEAPOLIS—American babies eat too much, one expert believes.

Dr. L. Emmett Holt, Jr., pediatric professor at New York university, told professors attending a University of Minnesota short course that the increase in heart disease reflects the condition.

He says the trouble eventually shows up among adults.

One reason, says Holt, is the introduction of solid foods into a baby's diet at an ever-earlier age. The portion of sugar in the milk formula isn't cut down at the same time in most cases. That results in too rich a diet.

Holt doesn't think much serious physical damage is caused by this condition... as long as the condition is corrected later.

proposed Ruhr statute and in the proposed constitution for the Western German state.

Stalin holds the three most important posts in the Soviet Union—generalissimo of all armed forces, premier and head of the government, and secretary general of the Communist party.

Speculation on a possible triumvirate was that Molotov might take over a premier of the Soviet government. G. M. Malenkov, next to Stalin in party affairs, might take over a party secretary general. N. A. Bulganin, minister of armed forces, might take over a generalissimo of the armed services.

The Communist Daily Worker, commenting on the cabinet shake-up, called attention to Stalin's February offer to meet President Truman and warned that the West should "enter into peace conversations now" with Russia.

"We are of the opinion that Soviet foreign policy is perfectly clear," The Daily Worker said. "A study of the public announcements of Soviet leaders is all that is necessary."

British Colonial Mines To Aid U. S. Stock-pile

By RICHARD D. McMILLAN
United Press Staff Correspondent
LONDON (UP)—Plans to dig in to the resources of British colonial territories for the American stock-piling program are going ahead in East Africa.

The plans include building railroads and developing ports to tap the mineral wealth of Rhodesia, with its vital reserves of copper and chrome. They fit into the overall scheme to create a defense bastion on the African continent south of the Sahara.

The conference of commonwealth prime ministers in London endorsed the proposal to organize African resources to fit into the Western Union scheme of defense.

Since then, colonial experts have been studying the possibility of linking Rhodesia by rail to "Port Peanut." That is the name given to Mikindani, the newly-created Tanganyikan harbor for the ground nuts development scheme.

To Relieve Port
By that means, the precious cargoes from Rhodesia would pass entirely through British territories without being diverted to the port of Beira, in Portuguese East Africa. At present, Beira carries a large amount of traffic from the British mines in the land-locked interior.

Because of the inability of the Portuguese port to handle any more traffic, many Rhodesian mines have slowed down output, awaiting development of new outlets.

Discussions for the improvement of Beira's facilities have been going on between Rhodesia and the Portuguese government.

Portugal Co-operating
Already a decision has been made to install four more deep-water berths in the harbor. It is felt, however, that still greater efforts must be made in view of the world importance Beira now assumes.

Portugal has expressed the keenest desire to co-operate and further development schemes are expected. An alternative to use of Beira is to send traffic by rail over the thousand-mile stretch to the South African ports.

The ideal solution, however, would be to have a direct railroad link between Rhodesia and one of the harbors in Tanganyika.

That would give the immediate result of relieving congestion on Beira, enabling increased production from the Rhodesian mines of urgently needed vital minerals. It would contribute to the network of communications necessary for the military, air and naval bases being established in East Africa.

Another Advantage
Still another advantage would be to open up railroad traffic from the even richer Belgian Congo directly to the East African coast ports.

At present there is a rail line from the Congo to Broken Hill. From that point in northern Rhodesia it is proposed to build the new railroad to Tanganyika and the coast.

In that manner, all three territories—Rhodesia, the Belgian Congo and Tanganyika—would be able to increase output of their much-needed resources which they would be able to send rolling down to the expanding harbors on the Indian Ocean.

While the transport problems are being smoothed out, the question of increasing production in the African mines is also being tackled. It was announced recently London that for the purpose, a group of 50 American geologists and geodetic surveyors were to be loaned to the British colonial office.

Many of them certainly will be sent out to Rhodesia and Tanganyika to play their part in the task, inspiring to the imagination. They will be opening up darkest Africa's untold mineral wealth to be harnessed for the benefit of the western world.

MORE COUNTRIES EXPECT TO JOIN ATLANTIC PACT

WASHINGTON, March 7—(AP)—Several more countries may soon join the North Atlantic alliance talks despite growing Russian attacks on the security project.

Diplomatic officials forswore swift action in that direction today, with Norway officially lined up alongside the western powers.

Ambassador Wilhelm Munthe De Morgenstjerne took his place in the negotiations at the State department yesterday about the same time that his government in Oslo firmly turned down Russia's month-old offer of a non-aggression treaty.

Norway brought the total of negotiators to eight. The others are the United States, Canada, Britain, France, the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg.

Several other states are considered eligible for membership in the projected security alliance.

Denmark's foreign minister will leave for Washington to investigate the treaty possibilities next Tuesday. While Italy's exact relationship with the treaty powers is in doubt she may still come in as an original signer. Iceland and Portugal both know they would be welcomed but have not yet received official invitations.

Meanwhile the government of Ireland has decided that it cannot join an alliance with Britain so long as Ireland remains divided.

Secretary of State Acheson held a lengthy meeting yesterday with Morgenstjerne and the other ambassadors. They are scheduled to meet again Monday.

The treaty, binding North America and Western Europe into an intercontinental security system, is expected to be completed by the end of next week and signed by the end of the month—probably in Washington, according to responsible authorities.

Gas Company Aids New Installations

Proof that the Natural Gas Co. of West Virginia has made tremendous strides in conquering the "gas shortage" problem was seen yesterday when the company and its associated companies announced approval had been given to more than 6,500 applications for permits to install gas-fired units in residences scattered throughout Pennsylvania, Ohio and Maryland.

The approvals granted within the last week have cleaned up nearly all pending applications received to March 1.

The gas company is continuing to receive applications for gas house heating. Approval of these applications received after March 1 must await a continued improvement in gas supply, it was announced.

"Generally mild weather," a gas company spokesman pointed out, "is largely responsible for our being able to grant these thousands of requests. Then, too, we have been able to complete many construction projects which were undertaken so we could maintain better gas pressures in winter weather."

Slick 'Daily Double' Leads To Jail Cell

GLOUCESTER, Mass.—A 30-year-old Providence, R. I., man tried to play a "daily double" at the expense of Western Union but instead of paying off, it landed him in a police cell.

First, the man went to the local Western Union office, deposited $2,500 cash and ordered it wired to a "William Taylor" in Springfield. That night he broke into the same office and rifled the safe, but it contained only $200, his $2,500 having been hidden elsewhere.

Net day the man appeared at Western Union in Springfield, identified himself as "William Taylor."

TEARS FLOW AT ELLIS ISLAND

KEPT BACK by an iron fence at Ellis Island, N. Y., Mrs. Barbara Lawrence (right) indulges in a good cry at sight of relatives she hasn't seen in years. They are Jews from the Jewish colony of Shanghai, China, who arrived by train from west coast en route to Israel. Mrs. Lawrence will get to be with them before they sail by Army transport March 3 on another leg of their journey almost around the world to a new land and new home. (International) and tried to collect the $2,500 he had wired. However, police had been tipped off and he was arrested.

Police said the man had hoped to regain his $2,500 from the Western Union safe, then hurry to Springfield and collect the $2,500 he had wired to "William Taylor."

DAMASCUS

World Day of Prayer was observed by members of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist church at an all-day meeting at the church Thursday.

A luncheon was served at noon by a committee.

Routine business was transacted in charge of the president, Mrs. Clyde Barclay. A nominating committee, composed of Mrs. Alton Bye, Mrs. H. L. Weikart, Mrs. M. W. Strawn and Mrs. J. H. Cameron was appointed to present names for officers at the next meeting, April 7.

Mrs. J. B. Amstutz was in charge of the program which consisted of singing and prayer, and a demonstration explaining where the money given on the Day of Prayer is used.

A quilt was finished and rug tags were cut and sewed at a meeting of the Missionary Auxiliary of the Friends' church Wednesday. The event was held with Mrs. Bert Phillips with a coverdinner at noon with 21 present. Mrs. Alfred Warrington and Mrs. Dwight Phillips were guests. Mrs. Dwight Phillips assisted in serving the dinner.

Routine business was transacted in charge of the president, Mrs. Earl Santee, and it was decided to send a sum of money to the pastor of a new church.

Mrs. Leonard Pearce read the Scripture, and prayer was offered by Mrs. Elizabeth Morgan. Portions of two letters read by Mrs. Robert Mosher, from a missionary in India, and Mrs. Albert Borton gave a short talk. Mrs. Homer Stanley, leader, read a chapter in the book "Till Break of Day."

Mrs. Ernest Ryser will entertain the group at the next regular meeting, Wednesday, April 6.

Mrs. Phillips Entertains
Members of the Rebecca Coleman missionary circle of the Friends' church were entertained by Mrs. Donald Phillips Wednesday evening. Roll call was answered by "My Favorite Dish." A committee composed of Mrs. Edward Donohue, Miss Olive Spencer, Mrs. Margaret Hoopes and Mrs. Robert Moore was appointed to plan a mother-daughter banquet to be held in May.

Mrs. T. L. Stacey, the program in which she used a lesson from chairman, conducted the devotions "Lift Up Your Eyes." Dr. Walter R. Williams showed moving pictures of the Friends Missions in China and India.

The evening was spent in quilting and making baby clothes.

A lunch with appointments in keeping with St. Patrick's day was served by the hostess, and associate hostess, Mrs. Harley Thomas.

The next meeting will be held with Mrs. W. A. Talbott Tuesday evening, April 12.

Miss Elva Boyer, Mahoning county health nurse, gave a talk on "Contagion in the Schools" at a meeting of the Mother's club of the Damascus grade school Wednesday. The treasurer report showed $230 in the treasury which will pay for the playground equipment, which was ordered and will leave $20.00.

Mrs. Myron West and Mrs. Herbert Whitcher composed the committee in charge of the lunch.

The next meeting will be held March 6.

Helen Kay Wyss, two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wyss, has returned home from the hospital where she was a patient for a week, receiving treatment for pneumonia.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. McMillin of Magnolia, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Waffler of North Georgetown, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Miller and Mrs. Cora Miller of Minerva called on Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wyss and daughter, Helen Kay, recently. Mrs. Frank Young of Berlin Center spent Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Talbott.

Miss Florence Paul of Chicago is visiting her cousin Mrs. Robert Melka.

Wesley Cosand of Mount Pleasant is spending two weeks with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Cosand.

Mrs. Virgil Edgerton will arrange the program for the meeting of the Ashbridge - Willow Vale Parent-Teacher association Wednesday evening March 9. Mrs. Homer Miller will have charge of the lunch.

A movie on "Safety" will be shown at the next meeting of Garfield grange Wednesday evening March 9, and a penny supper will be served by the Juvenile grange.

Middle Income Groups Cause House Problem

Rents and High Production Costs
Must Come Down, Expert Declares

Legislation to ease the housing problem of middle income groups is needed in addition to the recommended program of more than one million public housing units for low-income families, Raymond M. Foley, administrator of the Housing & Home Finance Agency, to a builders meeting last week.

Foley told the group the cooperative housing approach offers "a promising avenue toward solution of the housing problem for part of the middle income group."

He said that experience under the federal credit assistance for cooperatives enacted in the Housing Act of 1948 "indicates that last year's legislation is far from sufficient and needs strengthening through additional legislation. Some of this we have already suggested, including some direct lending authority and 100 percent mortgage insurance for veterans' housing cooperatives. Further proposals, including broader application of direct federal lending, have been for some time under study in the agency and elsewhere in the administration."

Backs Truman Plan

Foley's statement on cooperative proposals followed his summary of provisions of legislation previously introduced to carry out President Truman's recommendations to authorize 1,050,000 federally-aided public housing units for low-income families, to launch a program of federal loans and grants to improve farm housing, to provide federal financial assistance to communities to clear slums and redevelop blighted areas, and to set up a comprehensive research program in housing through the federal government.

Enactment of these measures, he said, which cover the principal proposals which failed of passage last year with some important revision and additions, would "represent an historic milestone in the drive to improve the housing conditions of the American people."

"At the same time," Foley said,

"neither in the President's program nor in the thinking of other students of housing is it contemplated that this legislation presents the final answer to what it will take to reach our ultimate goal. Neither does the subject matter I have outlined cover all the areas where immediate action and assistance is desirable, and consequently should not be construed as being the whole of the probable legislative requests."

Two-Base Problems

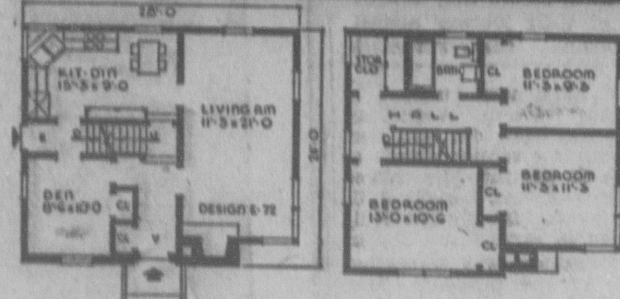

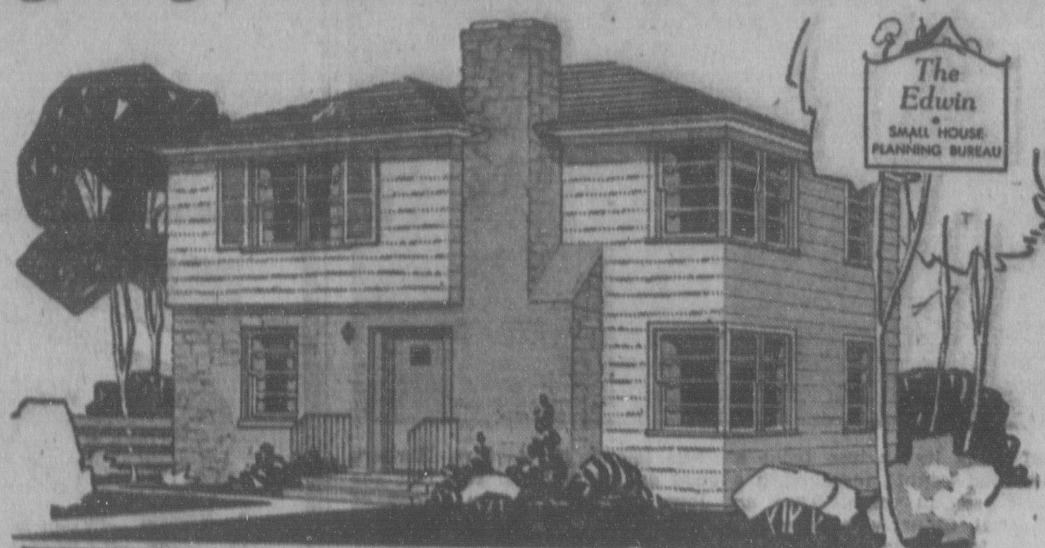

"I refer in particular to two basic and closely related problems in housing: the problem of middle and lower middle income families who cannot afford the high prices and rents which are typical in private housing today, and the whole problem of the high production cost of housing and of ways and means to reduce it."

Foley said that in order to make the most effective use of existing and proposed government aids to private enterprise, the agency is developing a joint drive by private industry and government at all levels for the production of a much larger volume of lower cost sale and rental housing to meet more of the middle income need.

"Our objective in this 1949 campaign," he said, "is definitely not to secure a large number of low-priced houses through loss of quality, but to achieve cost reductions that will get larger production of good housing at the lowest prices and rents achievable under today's conditions."

"We are continuously studying all proposals which hold forth promise of helping to relieve the middle income problem."

Lighting Featured In Two-Floor Home

THE EDWIN is a full two-story house. It has six rooms, all with good lighting and cross-ventilation. One end of The Edwin's large living room can be used for dining.

The modern kitchen has its cabinets arranged on two walls. There is a corner sink, located under the corner windows. A storage cabinet is located on the kitchen's inside wall. The Edwin's stairs and front hall can be reached from the kitchen without passing through another room first. The first floor bedroom, equipped with a convenient closet, may also be used as a den or workshop.

The Edwin's second floor bedrooms have large built-in wardrobes. A large storage closet is provided next to the bathroom, with a linen cabinet on one wall.

The exterior walls of The Edwin are frame with stone or brick facing under the second floor projection. The balance of the house is finished with siding. The roof is covered with asphalt shingles.

The dimensions of The Edwin are 28 feet by 24 feet. There is a floor area of 680 square feet and a volume of 17,820 cubic feet, including the full basement.

For further information about The Edwin, write the Small House Planning Bureau, St. Cloud, Minn.

New Paint Spray Uses Vibration

NEW YORK—A new paint sprayer eliminating cumbersome air compressors has been developed for home and professional use. The spray results from vibration instead of air pressure as used in older devices.

Spraying is particularly useful as a means of painting when an even coating is needed. The new sprayer works equally well with heavier paints for exterior use as for those applied indoors.

The new sprayer weighs just two pounds and consists of a glass jar for the paint, topped by a plastic handle and nozzle, to which is attached an electric cord. A button starts the spray and the nozzle adjusts to various spray weights. The average chair can be painted

Practical Furnishings Lead to Happier Living

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — (AP) — Russel Wright, a tireless debunker of formality in postwar living, is an evangelist among modern industrial designers.

When he isn't devising a new short cut to practical home making, he is crying a philosophy that abandons the stiffness and old lace of yesterday.

"The era of silver and delicate china is not for our servient world," says Wright. "We are developing a more comfortable and happier way of living, an honest expression of our times."

"Those who see a social stigma in eating in the kitchen simply lack imagination."

IN NEARLY 20 YEARS of simplifying home furnishings, Wright has broken new ground in spun aluminum, blond maple furniture and practical china ware.

He has designed Linotype and vending machines, and set trends in rugs, lamps and kitchen gadgets. His new china has rounded edges and can be stacked in less than half the shelf space of other types. It can be cooked in and brought steaming to the table.

"From oven to table to icebox," he says.

"Saves dishwashing." Wright has a Princeton and a Broadway background and is as sophisticated as a Cole Porter lyric. But he has a curious habit at times of slipping into the role of the absent-minded professor, his friends say.

He can be stubborn, too. Several years ago he bought a building on East 48th st. He wanted his studio and his home under the same roof. So he drew up specifications and called in a contractor.

"AS THE MEN got ready to remodel the building," an associate recalls, "Russel suddenly thought of his place near Garrison, N. Y. It's 40 or 50 acres, mostly timber. He said he would cut his own timber and it would be cheaper. We tried to argue against it, but it didn't do any good. So Russel cut his own wood. He spent days looking for kilns to dry it. After it had been cured and sawed, the cost was three or four times as much as it would have been if he had bought lumber from a dealer."

When Russel Wright was younger he was even more unregimented than now, and his opinion of banks was unflinching. He had saved a few hundred dollars and he hid it in milk bottles. His friends finally argued him down.

"He took his time about it, but he did go around town, looking at banks, making up his mind. One day he came to a building that said, 'The Corn Exchange.' It sounded good, and earthy, and solid, so he opened an account there and kept it 20 years."

"WHEN WE MOVED to the other side of town," the associate added, "I lost a lot of time going to the bank every day. Sometimes I had to close the office. When I suggested another bank closer to the office, he didn't like it. But when we showed him the time that could be saved, he transferred to a bank nearer home."

Wright's china has been adopted by hundreds of thousands of Americans in every state. He is now designing unbreakable ware for restaurants and other institutions. It's a plastic that doesn't look like plastic. In one test, a man dropped a plate from a skyscraper window without breaking it.

Wright is 44. He is a slender man just over six feet. In his early days he wanted to be a painter and for a time he worked with Norman Bel Geddes in New York and in Paris, designing stage scenery. Soon he set up his own shop, designing circus animals and furniture as theatrical props. These so intrigued one specialty shop owner that she asked for designs in metal.

Out of this grew custom furniture and metal wares, which led naturally into designing as a full-time career.

SOME OF WRIGHT'S "firsts" were informal service accessories, informal modern lamps and the first aluminum utensil designed for cooking and serving. He also achieved a revolutionary line of china dinnerware which combined functional utility and beauty of line and glaze.

In all of his designing Wright has had the assistance of his wife, Mary Wright, who announced her own line of china, "Country Garden."

"She named it because she likes Percy Grainger's music," Russel said.

Russel and Mary Wright also have a commitment to the publishers Simon & Schuster for this fall. "No name for it yet," Wright said, "but the subject is sloppy house-keeping."

She Builds Own Houses To Beat The Shortages

LAWTON, Okla. (UP)—Keep a house or build a house, it's all the same to Mrs. Viva Martin.

Mrs. Martin is her own answer to the housing shortage. She built the four-room house where she lives, plus two smaller houses next door. She wired her house, installed the plumbing, made built-in cabinets, tiled the bathroom, papered the walls and painted the whole thing, inside and out.

She learned her carpentering with her father's hammer and saw. When her father, a farmer near Snyder, Okla., decided to put up a barn, there were no sons to help so little Viva got the job.

She's sold on the work: Next summer, she's going to a farm she bought in Texas to build a house on it.

Quonset Changes Told

Improvements in Quonset building design providing faster erection, greater strength and smarter appearance are announced by the Great Lakes Steel Corporation Stran-Steel Division.

The new Quonset, like its post-war predecessors, provides a permanent, economical structure that meets civilian building code requirements. Compared with last year's model, it contains fewer but sturdier parts in the framework. This makes possible savings in erection time with obvious reduction in total cost for farm, industrial, commercial or public assembly buildings.

Guidance Book Released For Vet House Buyers

WASHINGTON, D. C.—What the veteran should know when he buys his home is set forth simply and concisely in a 24-page booklet titled "For the Home-Buying Veteran," now available here, according to the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency.

This booklet is intended to give an understanding of the powers and limitations of the government in assisting the veteran with his housing problems, and to furnish some basic guidance in the exercise of his own responsibility.

It affords a dual guide—(1) to government assistance on a home bought or built under GI guaranteed loans, FHA insured loans, and under Veterans Emergency Housing program priorities; (2) to self-help and protection in any home purchase transaction.

Three Agencies Collaborate

The booklet represents a joint effort of the Federal Housing Administration, which insures home loans for veterans and others; the Veterans Administration, which handles GI home loan guarantees, and the Office of the Housing Expediter which handles veterans preference on new housing and violations of veterans' priorities issued in 1946.

Copies of this booklet are available from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C. The price is $3.75 per hundred; single copies, five cents.

A veteran buying or building a home on the private market can look to the Federal Government for assistance in the following situations:

1.—If he has been denied the preference provided by law to buy or rent a new unit;

2.—If he buys or builds a home with a GI guaranteed home loan;

3.—If he buys or builds a home with an FHA insured mortgage loan;

4.—If his home was built with priority assistance and authorization under the veterans emergency housing program of 1946.

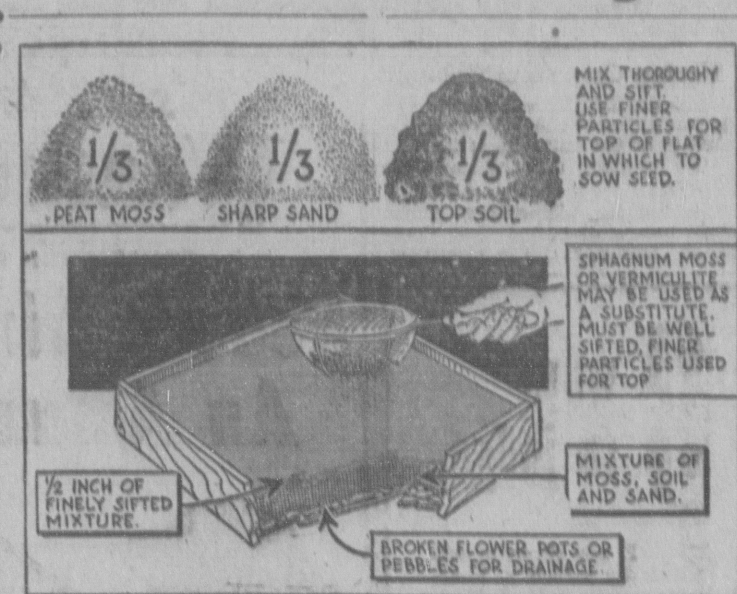

Questions Answered
The veterans' rights and protections in each of these situations are spelled out in question-and-answer in this pamphlet.

The home-buying veteran is advised to give thorough attention to four basic aspects of the purchase of a home: (1) the location, (2) the property itself, (3) the financing, and (4) the purchase contract.

In the array of questions raised for the guidance of the veteran in the section of the pamphlet, titled "Protecting Yourself When You Buy a Home," the following are typical:

Is the house suited to your family size, their needs and habits? Can it be economically enlarged if more room is needed?

Is the house conveniently located

Mix Sand, Soil and Peat For Winter Seed Starter

When garden seeds are sown indoors, long before it is safe to begin outdoor operations, much will depend upon the soil used to fill the seed box.

If this was not brought inside before the ground froze in the fall, it should be dug, and placed under shelter where it will thaw out gradually.

If you try to dry soil quickly, with considerable heat, you will make it very muddy at first, and lumpy thereafter. This will be difficult when what you want in a crumbly soil. Slow thawing will do the work, so do not try to rush things.

Even though you have taken the best top soil from your garden—as you should—it will still need mixing with sand to make it looser, and humus to increase its water holding capacity. Peat moss or leaf mould will supply satisfactory humus, but do not use manure, even when well rotted, in soil to be used to start seeds. Nor should plant food be used, lest too much nitrogen be supplied for the health of the seed sprouts.

A third top soil, a third peat moss or leaf mould, and a third sharp sand, such as masons use in concrete, will make a satisfactory mixture. After it is well mixed pass it through a sieve, about 1/4-inch mesh, and keep the coarser particles in a pile, to be used in the bottom of the seed boxes. The finer soil is then filled into the level of the box; it will settle quickly.

Sphagnum moss may be spread in a layer on top of the soil, if it is desired as a means of protecting the seedlings from "damping off" and other diseases. If soil is prepared by this method, there will be no need for feeding the seedling plants until they have reached transplanting size.

Two substitutes for soil which may be used in seed boxes are vermiculite, a form of mica used to insulate buildings, and sphagnum moss. These are sterile substances which have many advantages, being much lighter than soil; but they are entirely lacking in plant food and if used the plants must be fed as soon as they have made true leaves, (their second pair) with water, in each gallon of which a tablespoon of your garden plant food has been stirred.

as to schools, shopping and community facilities, transportation, place of work?

Is the house well-built and maintained? If repairs or alterations are needed, what will be the approximate cost?

Is the price in line with that of comparable houses in the same neighborhood or similar ones?

A dozen or more other questions are included together with plain advice concerning the purchase contract. Checklists are provided in this pamphlet as a guide and reminder of important points to consider. Listed also are selected references to other published guides for home buyers.

TRADE UNIONS BUILD HOUSE FOR VETERAN

CANTON, O.—Skilled hands are waiting to help a 21-year-old Navy veteran stricken with crippling polio finish a two-room bungalow and basement here.

The Canton A.F.L. Carpenters local has offered to supply the carpenter work if an estimated $1,500 in lumber, brick and other materials is made available.

The carpenters want to help John S. Murphy and his wife, Jeanne, who had the small home half-finished before polio struck without warning last September.

After buying a lot last April, the couple used shovels to dig out the foundation, laid foundation blocks and had the framework and roof completed before they had to give up.

Roland R. Vaughan, business manager of the carpenters' union, said recently he will appeal to other Canton building trades unions to donate help.

John hasn't been able to work since polio paralyzed his left leg from the hip down. The couple and their two-year-old son are living with John's widowed mother in Amsterdam.

Materials are forthcoming. The carpenters will put on siding, outside and inside trim and flooring and install five windows and three doors.

Vaughan is looking to other crafts to build the chimney, put on lath and plaster, install drainage tile, paint, grade and do other work to make the home habitable.

He said the 14 feet by 23 bungalow has a living room and bedroom and the couple plan to use the basement as a kitchen until they are in a position to build a one-room addition.

Before he was stricken, John worked for Babcock & Wilcox Co. at Barberton. The couple's only source of income now is a $50 monthly check from the Veterans Administration.

"If we could just finish our house, we'd be all right," said Mrs. Murphy, the former Jeanne Rabb of Canton, in a recent interview. "If John couldn't go to work I would be able to find employment."

Walking about on crutches, John has been advised by physicians at Steubenville that it will be many months before he can realize his ambition and return to work.

Organizations and individuals wanting to make donations of materials for the home may contact Vaughan.

FACE-LIFTING BEAUTIFIES HOME

A year ago the home of Urban Lepping, situated on a court just east of N. Ellsworth in the 1500 block, would hardly stop passersby with its exterior appearance. But with a new entrance arrangement and extensive landscaping, the home, built a number of years ago, is among the most attractive in that section of Salem. Construction was completed this winter.

An old, unattractive frame porch, about 8 by 10 feet in size, was torn down and in its place a modern brick entrance graces the front of the house.

The basement-garage is now conveniently accessible as the driveway has been black-topped and overhead doors were installed. The floor of this room was cemented during the change-over operations.

In landscaping the lawn, Lepping has a slope leveled off and a stone retaining wall placed at both sides of the driveway. Shrubbery, trees and a well-placed concrete walk add further to the beauty of the arrangement.

The entranceway is constructed of brick over insulation and contains a coat closet. The interior is finished in knotty pine. Copper light fixtures were placed at both sides of the door. A pattern in sandstone frames the door.

A terrace platform now extends from the entrance west to the side of the house. It will be covered with an awning for summer months relaxation.

Earl Grayson was the contractor for the work which will cost approximately $2,000 in its entirety.

Modern Building Design Discourages Pigeons

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—Modern design doesn't have much appeal for pigeons.

The rooco ledges and cornices of the federal building in Louisville long have been a favorite resting place for pigeons. But the new, streamlined Courier-Journal and Times building right across the street has yet to attract a single pigeon.

With no ledges, cornices or other architectural folderols, the new building offers no place for a squat to squat.

Fireplaces Add To Home

An attractive fireplace and mantel can brighten the living room and give it a cheerful and cozy atmosphere.

If the fireplace is not installed when the house is built, it can be put into an existing house. The work can be completed in a day by experienced mechanics.

The fireplace can be obtained in types designed for use of radiant stoves, gas or electric logs, or they can be equipped to burn coal or logs. A variety of mantels and fireplaces is available to suit the desired needs of the individual customer.

Russians Tapping British Phones In Berlin Zone

BERLIN (UP)—The Russians are listening to and recording all telephone conversations between the British sector of Berlin and the western zones of Germany.

A British security officer said the Soviets have installed 280 automatic recording machines at a station in Magdeburg. They operate automatically when British lines to the west are in use.

Copies of teleprinter messages also are recorded automatically, the officer said.

He expressed alarm at some of the information disclosed by British officers, enlisted men and civilians in Berlin in telephone conversations with the British zone and London.

No Secrets Kept

"We no longer have any secrets from anybody, so far as Berlin is concerned," the officer said. "So long as we continue to behave like ostriches, pretending that we are all pals together, the same state of affairs will continue."

While the official policy is to regard the four occupying powers in Berlin as full-fledged allies, he said, it is impossible to warn people that "the walls have ears" or "guard your talk."

Until recently, the official British telephone directory contained the names and addresses of all British security and confidential bodies, as well as those of their staff members.

After protests, most of these names and addresses were removed from the generally distributed edition of the directory.

Expedition To Atlantis Planned

By ED L. CAMPBELL

LONDON—(AP)—If you have $25,000—or any reasonable part thereof—to spend on a legend, here's your chance.

It's a good legend. It has been circulating around the civilized world ever since Plato gave it playing time on his ancient Greek conversational circuit.

More than 5,000 books in 17 languages are in print on the subject. Artists have a picnic with the fantastic forms it conjures up.

It is, in brief, the legend of lost Atlantis.

People who believe in it—they call themselves Atlantologists—say it was a continent about the size and shape of Australia. It was supposed to have been inhabited by a partly civilized race. Something cosmic happened—the Biblical flood is the best guess. About 9,000 B.C. Atlantis disappeared. From there on you pay your money and you take your choice.

Layoff Declines Encourage Bureau

WASHINGTON, March 7—(AP)—Robert C. Goodwin, director of the U. S. employment service, said today that the continuing decline in new industrial layoffs was the "most encouraging sign" in the employment picture.

He based his statement on the number of new claims for unemployment compensation filed last week. He said these claims, filed by persons out of work for the first time, declined for the sixth consecutive week. Last week these claims totaled 293,000, compared to 317,000 the previous week.

Goodwin's report came on the heels of a census bureau survey yesterday showing that the total number of jobless reached a seven-year high of 3,221,000 in February.

The census bureau also reported that there were 37,168,000 persons employed last month, an all-time high for the month of February. The continued flow of school students, graduates, housewives and others into industry apparently accounted for the increase.

Goodwin said the number of claims on his service's unemployment rolls was increased about 530,000 since the first of the year. How-

Barber Recalls Days As Leech Applier

WHEELING, W. Va.—At the turn of the century, John Freismuth, dean of Wheeling barbers, had the additional duties of a wig, switch and toupee maker, an applier of leeches and a remover of warts. Those were the services of the Gay '90s barber.

Describing the old days, Freismuth told of the crowded Saturday barber shops, where the customer needed a numbered check to hold his place in the waiting line.

The price of a shave was 10 cents while a haircut had gone up to 30 cents.

The leech business, Freismuth recalled, was good. Every Monday morning found numerous black-eyed customers awaiting treatment. Although it cost the magnificent sum of 50 cents, the treatment was quick and effective.

Fellow employees at the Bourbon Stockyards here chose a more practical gift to mark the retirement of Dick Raymond, 84, after 55 years with the firm.

They contributed enough money to buy him an easy chair.
